CYBERPSYCHO IN VILLE-MARIE! 7 DEAD, 12 WOUNDED: SPVM

From Rebecca Gutierrez, journalist

Residents of Ville-Marie were woken up yesterday by a cacophony of gunfire as SPVM's MAX-TAC team tried to take a rampaging cyberpsycho into custody. The fight took place in an abandoned warehouse of the Old Port. The engagement between authorities and the suspects is said to have lasted around ten minutes, some witnesses reveal.

Many of the wounded have been hospitalized and are fighting for their lives.

We are still waiting for new information on the motives and identity of the cyberpsycho. MAX-TAC has assured, early this morning, that they successfully wounded the suspect. The Municipal Police Service did not provide further information to the Update's questions.

Follow the evolution of this story in the 12:00 edition.

NEW RESIDENTIAL TOWER IN VILLE-MARIE

From Pierre Ferland, journalist

Eurobank announced this morning that they would purchase an abandoned property in the Ville-Marie district. In the following press conference, from their HQ in the Corporate Zone, the local EB branch discussed its intention of converting the property into a residential tower for the "quality workers" of the Cité Multimédia.

The political consequences of this new investment are still to be determined, according to sources close to the Update. EuroBank's compretitors on the council have yet to comment. The property, an old warehouse in the Vieux-Port area, is to be demolished in the coming weeks.
